Bringing London to its senses

OPEN SENSES FESTIVAL

19–21 May 2017

Overview

Open Senses is a weekend festival of art exhibitions, live events and performances, sensory journeys and walks, open studios and labs, and a ground-breaking symposium. It has taken a small team of volunteers over two years to plan this festival and we're incredibly proud of the programme.

We chose London as the city to launch Open Senses because it is a world-leading centre of excellence in sensory practice. We are inviting all Londoners, as well as each and every tourist and visitor, to freely come and open your senses; to awaken your nose, tastebuds, and skin to the world; to notice and savour the natural, physical environment around you.

Open Senses will showcase sensory practice as a powerful tool to evoke true human emotion and create warm, lasting memories. This is a festival for every woman, man and child to hear, see, feel, taste and experience.
Enjoy the weekend and let's get sensual!

FRIDAY ONLY

● Open Senses Symposium

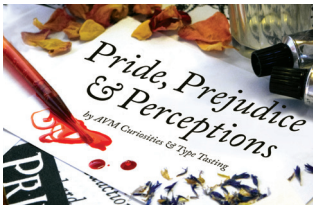
Senate House
University of London, Malet St, Bloomsbury, London WC1E 7HU
Friday Only | 15:00–21:00 | £
Accessible

The Open Senses Symposium brings together an interdisciplinary group of practitioners and artists exploring sensory practice. The event features exhibition stalls, panel discussions, pop-up talks and experiences. It will showcase work in academia, inclusive practice, scent, food, medicine, theatre, music, law, typography, dance and more.

The goal of the Symposium is to challenge, demonstrate and interrogate how sensory practice is capable of building greater connection to the world, our environment, the people around us and ourselves.

Programme Includes:
Prof. Barry Smith, Prof. David Howes, Prof. Juhani Pallasmaa, Prof. Charles Spence, Kate Goodwin (Royal Academy of Arts), Vetyver, Dr. Katy Whitcroft, Amy Neilson Smith and Zara Jarrold, BitterSuite, V&A, Dr. Iain McGilchrist, Alan Marsden, Beth Harland and Ian Heywood (LICA), Kara Jarrold (Sense UK), Andrew Mashigo (MaMoMi), Bushra Kelsey-Burge, Call and Response, Dr. Mariya Moojee, Dr. Beatrice Allegranti, Tereza Stehlikova, Adah Parris, Christopher Lutterodt-Quarcoo and more.

Pride, Prejudice & Perceptions



The British Academy
The Waiting Room,
10-11 Carlton House Terrace
London SW1Y 5AH
Friday Only | 09.00–21:00
Free
Accessible

An interactive sensory exploration of Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice created by AVM Curiosities & Type Tasting. The typography found in editions of this classic novel gives each a different voice. Taking this as the template, the display will use type, sound, sight and scent to serve one story three ways.

SATURDAY ONLY

● BitterSuite: Tapestries

Royal Opera House
Bow Street, London WC2E 7AU
Saturday Only | 16.45 & 18.45 | £
Accessible

Tapestries is a choreographed sensorial concert that is set to enhance an ingenious reworking of Janacek's String Quartet No.1 by composer Fred Thomas and poet Kayo Chingonyi. As one of 30 guests, you will be paired individually with a dancer who will blindfold you and lead you through a concert for the senses, feeding you gourmet tastes by chef Adam Thomason, surrounding you in bespoke scents created by Sarah McCartney and enveloping you in intense movement and touch based choreography by BitterSuite. The score interweaves Janacek's full work together with original choral spoken poetry and phrases taken from Janacek's inspiration: The Kreutzer Sonata. Performed live by Phaedra Ensemble.
